

▲ Anantara Al Jabal Al Akhdar Resort, Three-bedroom Royal Mountain Villa

OMAN

A two-hour drive from Muscat and into the cooler mountain climes is where you'll find Anantara Al Jabal Al Akhdar. On Oman's storied Green Mountain, on the cusp of a huge canyon, the mountaintop oasis is one of the world's highest five-star hotels. While the resort itself is seriously remote, if you seek yet more privacy opt for the Three-bedroom Royal Mountain Villa. It's the only suite with a second story; it has its own private entrance and garage with space for two cars, and is set away from the rest of the resort. The suite has three en-suite bedrooms and nanny quarters; the main bedroom is on the upper floor and has its own living space and soaking tub. The stone terrace has alfresco dining space, an infinity pool and Jacuzzi with fine mountain views.

Capella Ubud, Bali, The Lodge ▶

BALI, INDONESIA

Since it's surrounded by lush rain forest, you'd be forgiven for not spotting this luxurious tented camp — it was constructed in the trees and is seriously hidden away and private. While all the 'tents' are gorgeous, The Lodge is exceptionally so, with opulent, Eastern-inspired decor. The split-level, two-bedroom hideaway has an open-plan living room, two bathrooms (one has a Japanese bathtub; the other has a hand-hammered copper bath) and the most serene views of the Keliki valley. There's also a 205-ft pool and a large wooden deck with cantilever daybeds — rustle up a cocktail from the fully stocked bar 'trunk' (it's restocked every day) and relax poolside. Or, for extra indulgence, wine and canapes can be arranged in-suit.
